Contribution of Zia Uddin, PhD in the Research and Educational Projects of Wayne State University, School of Medicine, Detroit, MI

Elaine Hockman, PhD (Professor Computer Science, Wayne State University, Detroit) and I were engaged in several computer science and data analysis projects. Dr. Hockman is co-author of one of the paper published by me.

In 1999, I was requested by the Associate Dean, Wayne State University (WSU), School of Medicine, Detroit to assist in the establishment of academic contacts in the Gulf Cooperation Council Countries. The following educational programs were instituted by me.

i)   Visit of the WSU professors to hospitals in Kuwait, Bahrain and Saudi Arabia to train the physicians in the recent advances in medicine and surgery.

ii)   Organization of symposiums and conferences in Bahrain and Saudi Arabia, which was attended by >200 physicians from the Middle Eastern countries.

iii)   Recently (2018), a professor from WSU visited Abha International Private Hospital, Saudi Arabia to teach the physicians the recent advances in the treatment of Diabetes Mellitus.

iv)   I have been also involved in the review of the applications for admission in the medical school, WSU.
